Now, the Olympic Arrows

Greek-backed club Downer Olympic took over Canberra's Philips League team last

The team — Canberra Arrows — previously was run ntly by Downer Olympic and Canberra City Soccer jointly by Downer Olympic and Canberra City Soccer Club

Canberra City however, no longer can afford PSL involvement. It will continue to run its social club, which is being upgraded at a cost of $150,000, and will field amateur, old boys' and women's tearms.

The new Canberra Arrows board has a predominance of Downer Olympic representatives on it, but its president is Charlie Parkins who also remains president of Canberra City.
Chairman is Dave Dillon, another of Canberra City's leading lights, and vice-president is Angelo Stratmarcos, president of Downer Olympic.

Nick Sarri (Olympic) is treasurer, and the board members so far are Arthur Huggins, Con Kourpanidis, Con Leon and George Karris.

Two more board members are yet to be appointed. It was at Canberra City's instigation that control of the Arrows passed over to Downer Olympic, which now is solely responsible for funding the PSL operation

Canberra City capitulated to the financial pressures and handed its 50% share in the Arrows to Olympic.
Olympic, incidentally, continues to field a team in the Charlie Perkins said the Arrows were determined to

"We'll look at players' contracts at the end of the Ve definitely will not tolerate bludgers and we'll be execting 100% effort from evervone on the field.

"We'll also concentrate on promoting local young

The PSL now includes five clubs controlled by the

The Australian Broadcasting Commission has been asked by a delegation of high-ranking PSL officials to programme a one-hour weekly soccer show from next season.

The ABC is reported to be enthusiastic about

The show would be shown nationally on about 128 ABC stations.

A decision about the proposed show is expected to be made by the ABC in the next few weeks.

If it goes ahead, it will not only provide welcome exposure for the sport, but also improve the clubs' chances of gaining sponsorship.

For the past two years, soccer has been the major sport shown on Channel 0/28 in Melbourne and Sydney. The service this year has comprised a half-hour show on Monday night, a one-hour show on Friday night, a Saturday afternoon children's soccer programme, plus replays of matches overseas.

It is important for soccer that Channel 0/28's continued involvement is fostered, even if the ABC does decide to run soccer.

Feeling against him was even stronger before and during the early stages of the 1982 World Cup, but the Italian federation ignored all those demands for Bearzot justified the federation is faith in him, but it is the federation which must be congratulated for sticking by him.

Brazil made an unfortunate exit from the World Cup yet at the airport back home, the players were applauded and coach Tele Santana was congratulated for the team's wonderful performances. I admire the strength shown by president I admire the strength shown by presucent John Constantine in resigning over this and other issues. He has shown himself to be a man of dignity.

It is unfortunate that men like he are forced out of the game, while the incompetents remain.

I've been fascinated to read over recent weeks all the stories about whether or not we should start import-ing Brazilian coaches to cash in on the excitement Brazil created in the World Cup.

Cup.

"Soccer Action" columnist Andrew Dettre made the most intelligent comments last week in the article headed "Sadly the Samba just sin't for us."

Dettre pointed out that it's quite unrealistic to try to import a style that doesn't suit us. I want to pursue the subject in a little more depth.

Relative standards of living, effects of industrialisation, and urban conditions also Relative standards of living, effects of industrialisation, and urban conditions also must be taken into account when we talk of trying to emulate a style of play foreign to us. In many countries, for example, urban conditions minimise the development of nature talent. Twenty or thirty years ago, when there was less urban development, you could pick was patural footballers from paddocks the way you pick cherries from a tree. Not so now, especially in Australia.

In Brazil however, such natural talent still is available.

In Brazil however, such natural talent still is available.

Many other countries, however, are stuck. Their supply of good footballers is being reduced to trickle and they haven't compensated by taking a more scientific approach the sport's development.

The West Germans have shown the way it should be done. They have developed a "German cocktail" to suit the German temperament—incorporating the arrogance, physical attributes and discipline inherent in the German character. But the style has been developed only over the past 30 years, and it has been developed only over the past 30 years, and it has been developed upite deliberately. It certainly differs vastly from the rough, tough approach the Germans had in the early fittes.

Holland was a nation of water polo and chess but through discipline and organisation, the Duich have set one of the highest coaching standards in the world. While our soccer people complains so often about the fact that our population of only 14 million limits our development, Holland has shown that it doesn't really matter how big or small a country is.

But getting back to the coaches. Let's analyse which environment suits the various different types.
Firstly, you'd have a hell of a job trying to find successful Brazilian or Argentinian coaches in Europe, especially in British-orientated countries. Such ocaches are successful instead in surroundings familiar to them or Evaristo is doing well in Quar, Carlos Alberto is in Kuwait where he has succeeded Lagalo, Rivelino's in Saudi Arabia and Didi in Peru.

berto is in Kuwait where he has succeeeded Zagalo, Rivelino's in Saudi Arabia and Didi in Peru.

While such coaches find it foreign to them to operate in Anglo-Saxon surroundings, it also works vice-versa.

It also works vice-versa.

The surroundings is the beautiful and the surroundings, it also works vice-versa.

It is a blaze of publicity with millions of pounds in his pocket. But let's face it, what have we heard about him since then?

Dettman Cramer of West Germany similarly could not gain success during his stint in Saudi Arabia. Perhaps the strict, rather clinical approach of the German did not suit the Hamboyant, emotional Arabs.

But the temperament of Yugoslav coaches on the other hand, is quite amenable to not only the Arabian character, but also to Latins and to Africans. Therefore, we've seen Yugoslavs coaching successfully in Algeria, Zaire and Cameroon.

As for players, where do South Americans owhen they decide to try their luck abroad? Apart from Ardiles and Villa, most go Spain of Latin character.

With the recently introduced one-substitute rule in the PSL, Heidelberg coach Len McKendry probably is the luckiest coach in the league having someone like Paton in his side. McParland left after three years to take over as manager of Celtic and current Brisbane Lions coach Joe Gilroy took over.

Partick Thistle approached him and McParland heard of the move. He called Paton into his office the night after Thistie's approach. He told Paton that Thistle wasn't good enough for him and that he should stay with Queens till the end of the season, then McParland would see that a big club signed him.

"At the end of the season nothing happened," said Paton.

"I had a blinder for Queens in a Glasgow Cup game against Rangers and they approached Queens the next day. Wanting to sign me. I was still teenager and the Mean and the same against Rangers and they approached Queens the next day. Wanting to sign me. I was still teenager and to Mean and the same and the same and to lay for Queens. I said yes. So he picked up the phone, rang Rangers and told them to forget it, I wouldn't move."

When McParland went to Celtic as manager, Paton thought that his former coach might sign him. Queens played celtic on Boxing Day. Before the game a scout from Aston Villa told Paton that Celtic would approach him after the game but he wasn't to agree immediately to sign. He should hold off for a week. Villa really was keen.

In the first minute of that game Celtic's Paul Wilson and Paton tacked hard. Wilson fell heavily on top of Paton's knee. Paton had to be replaced at half time. His chance of going to Celtic of Villa was blown.

Disillusioned about soccer in Scotland, Paton listened eagerly to former Slavia and Frankston City defender Frank Thomson who was in Glasgow on holiday. Thomson Queens Park completely dominated the formative years of Scottish soccer. Founded on July 9, 1887, it is Scotland's oldest serving senior league club and before the turn of the century it had won the Scottish Cup a staggering 10 times.

Queens Park started its amazing cup success with a hat-trick of wins in 1874, 75 and 75. It repeated the feat in 1884, 45; 90 and 93. That ast win, in 1893 was to be Queens Park is last major trophy.

an English F.A. Cup final. Twice in fact, in 1884 and 1885. On both occasions it met Blackburn Rovers and lost, the only time the same two clubs have contested successive English F.A. Cup finals.

Perhaps the greatest moment in this proud club's history came in 1872 when the first ever international between Scotland and England was held. All 11 Scotland dayers that afternoon came from Queens Park.

The Hampden Park based club didn't concede a goal in the first seven years of competition! And another two years passed before it eventually lost a match.

But after losing to Celtic in the 1900 Scottish Cup Final Queens Park gradually took on a less dominant role in Scottish Soccer. Its three claims to fame since have been Second Division championships.

It was, to put it ex-tremely mildly, the most gauche event of the season.

The season.

There, in the swank Hakoah Club, stood John Royce of Consolidated Royce, a large figure of a man in dark blue business suit reminiscent of the late 1840s, singing the praises of soccer to soccer officials and soccer writers — a sort of Franciscan novice approving the structure of the Vatican.

In the best traditions of that vulgar TV car commercial ("Let me do it right for you.") John Royce was recting soccer's virtues, quoting mystical "market values" and making weiled hints (later unsubstantiated) at some rugby league clubs showing interest in joining the PX rugby league for the properties of the prope

It was all very businesslike, Mal Harrop sounded authoritative and Sam Papasavas put on a brave face, but instead of being knocked out by this so-called "aggressive sponsorship campaign," I for one sensed more than a hint of desperation about it all.

Consolidated Royce Public Relations Pty Ltd, of which Harrop an executive, has been engaged by the PSL to find a new sponsor. It is only a matter of weeks before the six-year relationship between the league and Philips Industries is due to cease. And so the money has to come from somewhere else — at least $375,000 a year on current costs. Finding that money is the task of Consolidated Royce.

The league has tried many avenues, all of which proved to be ad ends.

The league has tried many avenues, all of which proved to be dead ends.
Without a sponsor, affiliation fees for PSL clubs will rise next season — perhaps to about $30,000 each. In addition, they may have to pay an extra amount towards air fares.
Regionalisation of the league was named as one of the league's "forward plans under consideration," in a Press release associated with the launching of the sponsorship drive.

The forces favoring regionalisation remain strong, but league chairman Papasavas was adamant it would not happen next season, even if the league doesn't get a sponsor.

It was all part of his brave face, for Papasavas realises better than anyone the financial advantages of regionalisation. If indeed, no sponsor is found, even he may come out in support of league restructuring.

Harrop, however, believes there is a "60-40" chance of signing up a new sponsor in time for the league's presentation night in Sydney on September 7.

The league's total budget for 1983 is just over $800,000 and any new sponsor would be asked to contribute at least half.

Dear John Royce! Welcome to the world of Australian soccer in the eigh-

You may have found the Press conference at Sydney's Hakoah Club a slightly trau-matic experience, confronted as you were by a horde of thirsty, hungry and decidedly cynical journalists.

If we acted as if we have all heard it before, the PR hype, the rosy future, the millions and the hundreds of thousands bandied about, the incredible numbers of juniors playing the game — well, we have.

I, for one, welcomed the establishment of the late, unlamented ASF Marketing Company, hoping for the dawning of an era of professionalism in the promotion, marketing and administration of soccer.

Even I had to face up to that venture's miserable failure after some time had elapsed. Now I once again welcome the advent of professionals into the marketing and promotion of the sport we all love. Consolidated Royce, your company, represents a new start, at least for the Philips League.

By PETER SCOTT

So, may I offer a few com-ments, which could prove to be of help in your quest for the sponsorship dollars and media exposure.

Make sure your company does not fall into the trapwhich ensured ASF Marketing. Do not tailor your advice to the soccer people to fit in with their pet perceptions. Be professional, even if your advice is not comfortable for the PSL big-wigs to listen to.

Be businesslike Indulge in a bit of market research, examine what is on offer in the sports entertainment market, do not chase rainbows and imaginary hordes of "closet soccer fans". Most important try to reverse the trend of imaginary hordes of "cioset soccer fans". Most important, try to reverse the trend of alienation which has permeated the captive market of millions of ethnic Australians. They are a growing segment of our population and the lifeblood of the sport in Australia. Ethnics seek to be catered to — not used and then discarded as an embarrassment!

• Do educate the league's members on the proper role of the media. We are not paid to be the public relations agents of individuals or clubs; you are. Explain that the media's role is to report the news and comment on it.

• Let's try to create an atmosphere on which the media is recognised as an equal partner in the affairs of soccer, rather than a worrisome intrusion into sporting politics.

• Eliminate the belief prevalent in some circles that only the daily Press, with its fairly miserable proportion of space devoted to soccer, matters. Members of the specialist soccer and ethnic media are not second class citizens, but often are treated as such when it comes to finding out about Press functions, or the allocation of seats at games. No wonder they — WE! — get cynical.

How Maradona was bought

Maradona was sold in American dollars to beat Argentina's astronomical inflation. The total transfer fee values him at nearly six times the price of gold - about $300,000 an ounce against $400. He weighs 11st. 6lb.

Argentinos Juniors, his first club, get $6 million. Boca Juniors, who took him on loan, gets $2m.

Maradona received $3m for signing on and lawyers fees on the contract were another $250.000.

Barcelona, still wrangling with the Spanish Government over the release of foreign currency, should pay the first in-stalment of $2m this weekend.

The rest is in four annual instalments and an agreement to play some friendlies free in Buenos Aires next year.

Whose gonna be second?" might be the cry from Liverpool as they defend their title and try to win it for the 14th time. They have a backbone of English and Scottish World Cup players plus the free-scoring Welshman, Ian Rush, and the brilliant young Irish-man, Ronnie Whe-

Now they have acquired two outstanding young Scots: fullback Seve Nicol who cost $600,000 from Ayr United, and central defender John McGregor from Queens Park - both Scotland Under 21 players.

In addition, Craig Johnston who battled his way into a regular first team place late last season, obviously will go flat out to consolidate his position.

But strong as Liverpool is and with such an impressive record behind them, they may find that Manchester United and Arsenal will be breathing down their necks all the way to the finish. United, who put in a powerful finishing burst last season to finish in third place, secured talented Dutch midfielder Arnold Muhern from Ipswich to give that department (Bryan Robson, Lou Macari, Mike Duxbury and Ray Wilkinfo some real component of the season of West German national team "forever", was back at the heart of the side which lost the final against Italy in the World Cup.

Breitner turned the clock back in the heart-stopping semi-final against France in Seville when he calmly, almost casually, chipped home in the penalty shoot-out to help see the West Germans into the final.

It evoked memories of the 1974 final in Munich when, as a junior member of a star-studded West German team, he had the nerve to take the penalty which enabled his side to draw level against the Netherlands on its way to a 2-1 victory.

Eight years on, Breitner has changed from an adventurous overlapping left back into a forceful midfield general, driving himself and his team-mates tirelessly onward. The one reminder of his left-back days is the number three on his World Cup shirt, the number he superstudies in two victorials of the control of the superstudies of the control of the c unlucky!

Scotland and the USSR entered the World Cup with high expectations but made their exit after losing only one game each. So too did Italy but Italy won the Cup.

Soccer Action photographer LES SHOR-ROCK was in Spain to capture in picture all of the World Cup action.

Here we offer Shorrrock's view of the stars Scotland and the USSR.

Paul Breitner (centre) and Karl-Heinz Foerster (No. 4) combine to bring down Italy's Gabriele Oriali during the World Cup in Spain.

Breitner remains a complicated and perplexing personality. Outspoken and single-minded, he can appear remote, moody, self-aborbed and arrogant. But his concern goes further beyond four-ball than many other soccer players, and his eventual aim is to run a home for handicapped children.

On the pitch he deserves admiration for his determination, fighting spirit and ability to direct and lift his side when the going is rough. He made his 48th appearance for West Germany in the final but could have passed his century during the World Cup but for the long histus.

He and Rumminigge have lifted Bayern back to its winning ways of the 1870s when Breitner shared success with Franz Bechenabuer, Gerd Mueller and Sepp Maier. Soccer has also made him a big money-spinner off the pitch, and he earned a reported $62,450 for shaving off his beard to advertise an after-shave lotion.

Clayton Tech is the Victorian Technical School champion of the metropolitan area for the third time in six years after downing Essendon Tech 3-1 in the final.

Roman Sawecki and Henryk Sass are the coaching brains behind Clayton Tech's success but a nail biting penalty show-down against St Albans in a semi-final almost ended Clayton's chances of recaptu-ring the title it last won in 1979.

Clayton had far more pos-session in the final but Essen-don always looked threatening on the break. From such a ploy Essendon opened the scoring with a 15 metre shot but a foul inside the area on Clayton's Zelko Brankovic enabled Arthur Hrysanidis to level from the spot just before the interval.

Jorge Rodriguez applied the finishing touch to a good move from Tony Medina in the second half to give Clayton a 2-1 lead and just before full time Brankovic sealed Essendon's fate when he forced the ball home from close range.

A goal was again scored by Uchtelfangen in the first minute when a cross from Christian Bost was taken by Wollongong City goalkeeper Tony Markovski but he stepped back over the line.

Wollongong City had its chances to equalise but failed to do so from two quick corners and a West German counter attack resulted in a good save from the City goal-keeper to prevent Thomas Bost from scoring.

Wollongong City was un-lucky not to score when Paul Morris's shot was tipped over the bar by the German goalie, Markus Dorr, who again had a great game.

Early in the second half the Germans went further ahead when a long through ball again found Bost in a good scoring position and he slipped the ball past the City goalkeeper.

Midway through the second half pressure from Wollongong City resulted in Craig Baker opening City's score with a great individual goal.

Great defence from the West Germans kept the "Wolf Cubs" at bay and despite intense pressure from City in the last 10 minutes, the Germans ran out 2-1 victors.

The international camaraderie of World Cup fever had a dying flutter recently in the Illawarra when Wollongong City's under-16 team played two games against visiting West German club side, Uchtelfangen.

So much for the bad luck of the Irishman

At the other end, while the score was 0-0 and Peter Brogan in possession, most would think it a fairly safe situation for the Demons. Howuation for the Demons. How-ever, Brogan made one of his rare mistakes and John Galic was on the spot to scoot away with the ball, facing Bruce James. It was one of those goal scoring chances you always (wrongly) assume to be a "dead set sitter". Alas, Galic shot well but James saved even better. In the end, the decision was

With 10 minutes to go Avala went into the lead and looked set to do a "double" on Manly for 1882. However, it was not to be. Only four minutes remaining and the ever reliable Terry Smith did at Heoudini which took a deflection to go past bewildered Ahrens.

Bruce Tilt, Avala's scorer, might be excused for thinking he scored the winning goal after blasting his team into a late lead. In fact, Manly did not look good at all during that period and looked well beaten until a look good at all during that period and looked well beaten until a look good at all during that period and looked well beaten until a shot from Smith brought smiles back onto the Seasiders' faces.
Manly appeared to have had a slight edge at Cromer Park, but Avala always was dangerous. It was Avala in fact that should feel upset at hitting the woodwork at least twice. Thing to play for, whilst Avala, with an ocean between it and the top and just as big an ocean between it and the top and just as big an ocean between it and the top and just as big an ocean between it and the top and just as big an ocean between it and the top and just as big an ocean between it and travely looked like getting close to scoring. On the other hand, Avala always looked capable of doing the damage through its fast forwards, particularly Branko Karanfilovski. At the other end, Manly had another enigma to solve. His name was Peter Ahrens.

Peter Ahrens.
This tall keeper had a great game and I am sure that Micky Jones, Manly's coach, would love to see someone else in Avala's goal next time they meet.

Auburn 2 Rockdale 2

kd, A. Bottaskeo, Johnson.

Rockdale, firmly entrenched at the bottom of the table, came out firing on all cylinders against Auburn, hoping to snatch an early lead, and it paid off. Billy Pilovski's cross in the sixth minute was neatly tucked away by Johnson and Rockdale went 1-0 up.

It kept pumelling at Bowman and scored another goal after 23 minutes, but the referee disallowed it for an in-fringement by Alex Bottalico.

As this first 25 minute rush subsided, Auburn came back to score through Ray Carney. His jinky run got him past a couple of players before he faced Beaves to score without much bother. It was Carney's first goal for the season and his first for the club.

He almost had another as Auburn came back strongly towards the end of the first period. Mark Holloway facet the keeper in the 37th mitue, but Beaves managed to block Holloway's shot. Carce picked up the rebound but missed a glorious opportunity to make it 2-1.

Auburn soon scored how-ever. Only three minutes into the second half a fine run by Sullivan provided the spade work for Holloway to score.

In the 51st minute, Bottalico took a penalty for Rockda-le. His shot found the net but the referee insisted the penalty be retaken since one of Rockdale's players moved inside the area as the kick was being taken. Bottalico's second shot hit the crossbar.

However, Bottalico was not to be denied.

With six minutes to go and Rockdale seemingly beaten, Bowman was penalised for taking too many steps inside the area and an indirect free kick was given to Rockdale. Botalico blasted the ball through many legs, and it took a deflection to go past Bowman for the equaliser.

We are crediting this goal to Bottalico despite the fact that it was an indirect free kick.

HEIDELBERG ALEXANDER 3 (Taylor, Valentine, Cole ty) CANBERRA 1 (Gibson). Philips Cup semi-final at Olympic Park. Crowd: about 1,000. Referee: Bambridge 8.

MEIDELBERG ALEXANDER: Olver 8 — McMillin 8, Mecleod 7, Yenkas 7, Tansey 7 — Cempbell 6, Selemidis 7, Taylor 7 (sent off 73rd), Valentine 7 — Cole 7, Paton 7. — Cole 7, Paton 7. — CABERRA: Hoszowski 5 — Ontong 6, Milovanovic 5, T. Gibson 6, Brannan 7.

A well-drilled, disciplined Heidelberg Alexander took just 26 minutes to tear Canberra's ramshackle defence to shreds and grab a second Philips Cup final berth.

And the Bergers are set to go one better than in 1980 when they lost the final 3-1 to Marconi in a replay.

The first two Heidelberg goals were gems.

The opener came in the 12th minute with injured Ian Gibson lying at the side of the pitch getting treatment after two tough tackles in as many minutes.

Jamie Paton controlled well and knocked the hall wide to Jim tackles in as many minutes.

Jamie Paton controlled well and knocked the ball wide to Jim Campbell on the right. Ken Taylor was making a great off-the-ball run to the back post. Campbell spotted him and picked him out with a curling cross. Taylor smacked the ball first time on the volley, low and bouncing into the far corner.

Two minutes later the handful of spectators braving rain, hall and a biting cold wind could be excused for thinking they were back in front of a TV set watching World Cup action from sunny Spain.

It was slightly soaking samba stuff and 12 minutes later it was no contest.

Gary Cole and Taylor combined with a one-two in the 28th minute but Taylor was pulled by the shirt as he tried to beat Hoszowski to the ball and referee Bambridge pointed to the spot. Cole sent Hoszowski the wrong way as he sidefooted the penalty attempt home to make it 3-6.

Canberra pushed forward with scant regard for keeping it tight at the back and Cole and Paton almost capitalised. Cole in fact scored only to have the goal chalked off for handling. Heidelberg soaked up Canberra's pressure in the second half, content to get men quickly back behind the ball. Confronted with this tactic, Canberra wasn't inventive enough to break through. An Ian Gibson header inside a packed Heidelberg area in the 57th minute gave Canberra a flicker of hope. Charlie Yankos and co. however snuffed out that flicker.

The one stain on an otherwide tidy performance from Heidelberg came in the 73rd minute when Taylor was sent off after fouling George Christopoulos. The busy Heidelberg midfielder and been booked in the opening minutes and his second indiscretion APIA Leichhardt moved a step closer to winning the Philips Challenge Cup after eliminating holder Brisbane Lions at the St George Stadium.

Striker Tony Morsello sealed Leichhardt's 2-0 win with an 84th minute goal.

APIA had to survive relent-less Lions' second-half pres-sure before sewing up the match when midfielder John Bradley set up the winning goal.

APIA didn't have to want long for the vital first goal.

It came in the 13th minute and was scored by Bradley.

Alan Hughes, brought into the team for the suspended Jim McBreen, won the ball then sent a perfectly timed pass to Bradley, who was working inside the box on the right

Marconi in strife, Makedonia offers APIA new hope

By LAURIE SCHWAB

Brisbane City and Adelaide City for relega-tion: that's the way it looks with three rounds

Marconi also has joined the fight against relegation. On form, Marconi is likely to finish below Newcastle and Footscray J.U.S.T., but not among the bottom two. Canberra's form appears to have improved sufficiently to avoid having to stand for re-election, even if it loses its crucial match against Newcastle on Saturday week.

Newcastle will be Involved in another relegation struggle this week, against Footscray J.U.S.T. at the International Sports Centre.

Newcasure was a compared to the International operation week, against Footscray J.U.S.T. at the International operation. But J.U.S.T.'s chances of survival have been improved by the return of midfielders Zoran Illoski and Slobedan Jovanovic. The team did well to hang onto successive draws in the two weeks that it missed Ilioski who has been injured. Remaining matches of the relegation candidates, with home games in capitals:

Marconi-Datsun: v SYDNEY CITY. West Adelaide, NEW-CASTLE.

Three of the relegation-threatened teams have to meets Heldelberg and these should be titanic struggles, for Heldelberg needs victories to stay in the top four, as APIA is only two points behind. In this week's round, I expect Canberra to gain at least one point from Sydney Olympic at home, due to the fine form of George Christopoulos, Gary Byrne, Steve Bryant and Terry Byrne. Canberra however, must start showing cohesion in attack. Coach Dom Kapetanovic was bitterly disappointed with Marconi's performance against South Melbourne Helias last Sunday, and his team appears to have no hope of upsetting 1828 champion Sydney City Hakoah at Marconi Stadium on Sunday.

Hakoah may have stopper Steve O'Comor back in the line-up, and he will make it even harder for Marconi.

J.U.S.T. is playing tightly enough in defence to hang on for yet another point against Newcastle, but it will need to mark more closely in midfield than it did against Camberra last Sunday, for Jim Hamilton and Vos Senkalski are eminently capable of winming the game for Newcastle.

Adelaide's local derbies usually are closely fought, with current form not really a true indication of how these matches will end.

Adelaide City however, lacks the attacking power to upset West will end.

Adelaide City however, lacks the attacking power to upset West Adelaide Brisbane City has no hope of beating Heidelberg-Alexander at the Olympic Village, if Brisbane's away record is any indication. In 13 away games, Brisbane City has won only once and scored only seven goals. Heidelberg has John Yzendoorn back after injury, and Ken Taylor also returns after suspension, giving the Bergers their strongest squad in many weeks.

Prestor-Makedonia may give APIA-Leichhardt the opportunity to climb back into the top four on Sunday.

Makedonia, which is at the peak of its form, should beat Wollongong at Connor Reserve. George McMillan and Gary Ward have soored in each of the past three weeks, and now Doug Brown is back as well, determined to get back among the goals.

Even the great Arno Bertogna will be unable to stop that attack, backed up by Claude Luechesl and Alan Whittle.

So if Makedonia wins this one, Wollongong could find itself tumbling out of the top four, to be replaced by APIA on goal difference, provided APIA beats St. George at St. George Stadium. Saints however, will have striker Ted Macdougall back after injury, and Macdougall still is shooting for his first goal in the PSL. Wollongong, with the Iwewire member for Corrinal, Laurie Keily, as chairman, has paid its way in the PSL and recouped $20,000 of the original $80,000 investment.

"Soccer identities Robert Banks, Ron Burns and John Morris and Lleavings club directors."

Kelly, as chairman, has paid its way in the PSL and recouped $20,000 of the original $90,000 investment.

"Soccer identities Robert Banks, Ron Burns and John Morris are all leagues club directors."
With four 180 of the Wolver's assure management has laid a fine foundation for their future.

Newcastle also may shift to a new ground.
Newcastle chiarman Harley Dixon said. "We have suffered mainly because the international Sports Centre has its own funding arrangements which have priority over ours." "It means that every member of the ISC licenced club is admitted free to our games. In consequence our board has decided that we will study the alternative of using a suitable ground in the nearby growth area of Lake Macquarie."

In the remaining game of the next round, Brisbane Lions faces a tough home encounter against South Melbourne Hellas, which has Alun Evans back in top form.

clinched another PSL championship title with three more rounds still to go in the competition, with a ri-diculously easy drubbing of hapless Adelaide City.

Six points ahead of St George Budapest, and with a vastly superior goal differ-ence, The Blues often bull-dozed their way to wins this Season.

But last Sunday was dif-ferent, in that the champions' main character-istic this time was skill and pace, in a beautifully choreographed soccer ballet. Pity that only 1158 fans were on hand and pity that Hakoah fans seemingly have become so blase that there was a total absence of Adelaide City's long trip to Sydney would have been a total waste, if not for a very well taken 25 metre shot by an adventurous Les Carter completely unmarked and in the open on the wing.

By then, however, it was too late for Johnny Perin's men to do anything but stand back and grimly wait for the final whistle to put them out of their misery.

had David Jones and oc. in all sorts of trouble with his ability to win the ball in the air and distribute it well.

In fact Wilson was the instigator of an attack as early as the third minute which should have brought the first goal. He went past two defenders before crossing low for Redgern to head past Potter, but the ball hit the post and rebounded straight back to Redfern who by then was rendered ineffective with his back firmly planted on the surface of Pratten Park.

end, instead of shooting, the luckless Jennings managed to merely "backpass" to Potter. Preston became adventurous, pushing almost two men forward, and within two minutes missed two good opportunities. The frist came to Lucchesi following a good header by Ollerton, then McMillan failed to beat Wilson after a good through ball, again from Ollerton.

again from Ollerton.

Katholos scored his second goal after a superb through ball by Raskopoulos in the 67th minute and the game was all but over. Preston Makedonia failed to inspire, having only two men up front and a two goal led looked sufficient.

Then, the sickness which appeared to have befallen Olympic in the last few months, came over quite a few players. They started to drag their legs and looked ready for an "early shower". Tiredness was in evidence, not only for me to see but for all those enthusiastic olympic supporters. I am still at a loss to understand why.

What happened to those men

What happened to those men who entertained at the begin-ning of the year and looked set to carry all before them?

to carry all before them?

Elementary my dear Watson. They stopped running. I made some enquiries amongst the players and they ocafirmed my fears, that for some time their training routine was fairly poor, resulting in a loss of form as well as ability to last the full 90 minutes.

Even so, Olympic should have hung onto the points. Ward made it 2-1 after a net

Ward made it 2-1 after a net pass from Lucchesi in the 69th but very little was offered from the visitors between then and the actual equaliser. And if anyone deserve praise for the equaliser it si Doug Brown. He had the ball but with two Olympic defenders tackling he looked beaten. But he would not give in and continue to chase, getting a couple of fachase, getting a couple of vourable rebounds, be-pushing a through ball McMillan to steer home.

march towards a semi-final position.
While the game ended in a draw, it showed that Heldelberg will have to produce a bit more in the Philips Cup final against APIA even allowing the likelihood that the Sydney club probably will be without their top defender and coach, Peter Wilson.
Wilson further damaged his Achilles tendon in the Wednesday night Cup semi-final win

Roger Sherack over Brisbane Lions at St George Stadium

George Stadium
He turned out once again, and as early as the first minute he indulged in a crashing run into Gary Cole, who was stretched out for some time before he recovered to

By the 20th minute Wilson was clearly in difficulties and soon after he moved off to allow Sebastian Giampaolo to allow Sebastian Giampaolo to come on.

I had thought that there could be one crisis point for APIA and that was their ability to settle down from the start, as they had played poorly on the weekend after their last Cup clash with Marconi on the Wednesday night. Actually they settled down immediately from the jump, and remained settled when Big Willie' left.

kept plugging away. Their fitness showed out remarkably as they played at full stretch for the entire 90 minutes.

Heidelberg lost Don Macl-eod with an injury.

John Yzendoorn came on and played his usual neat hand in a return after injury.

APIA applied the pressure particularly in a three-minute burst from the 34th minute, with Tony Morsello and De Ceglie (twice) going close to Ceglic (twice) going close to scoring.

A foul by Mark Pullen on Jim Campbell just outside the box led to Cole taking the kick after two players had shielded the ball. Ultimately an offisde decision killed the move.

Young Paul Carter close-marked Paton well, and later Jeff Olver was called upon to make a fingertip save from Jim McBreen.

Rather, as it turned out, the match lasted 964 minutes. Referee Doug Rennie added on 2½ minutes for first half stoppages, and four minutes to the second half to make up for Heidelberg's tardiness in getting on with the play.

The home crowd became quite vocal over the Melbourne club's tactics, which might carry them into the semi-finals but will win them no hearts at all.

By the sixth minute Peter Jones had headed over from a John Bradley cross, and im-mediately afterwards Mike Valentine tried Parkes with a

It looked as if APIA were home in the 58th minute but Theo Selemidis came from the clouds to clear a shot by Peter Jones from right on the line.

Little was seen of Cole and Jim Campbell around the box, but all of a sudden Mike Valen-tine made a perfectly judged cross from the left touchline.

Cole knocked the ball on to Paton, whose shot was a couple of metres wide.

Paton must have got the scent, because in the 67th minute he scored. The move started fairly deep on the left with Jim Tansey. McBreen missed a header and McAusland missed the run of the ball and Paton streaked in to get his goal.

Chris Bekiaris got a cross to Valentine in the 80th minute but nothing came of it.

The run of play remained with APIA, and in the 83rd minute a Peter Jones header eluded Olver after a Carter cross and a De Ceglie shot and the equaliser was in.

There was quite a dust-up in Heidelberg's goal after anota-er Jones header screamed towards goal, but its forward path was checked by the crossbar.

Heidelberg produced no out-standing players, but John Bradley was top value for APIA for most of the game. Pullen was in top form, Jones was the scorer again, and De Ceglie and Carter con-tinue to increase.

This was the third consecutive home game City had drawn when they had enough chances to win by a handsome margin. A somewhat makeshift side took the park due to injuries to Willie Conner, Steve Perry and Joe Palinkas. The team included big striker Barry Kelso in only his second game back after an injury layoff of more than six weeks. Kelso was brilliant in the first 20 minutes, winning everything in the air and making dangerous runs through the Newcastle defence. It was Kelso's work that set up the goal; for Case from Hermiston, beat his de-fender, then lobbed a pass to the far post where Cairney, totally unmarked, had the simple job or nodding in.

At that stage everything looked rosy for the home side and a comfortable win was on the cards. But Kelso's lack of match fitness showed before the first half hour passed and although afterwards he was still prominent he was never as dangerous and City's attack dried up.

If City coach Nereo Saftich was worried about his attack Newcastle's Ken Kaiser must have been desperate at half-time as his side had produced nothing up front. Lowe had tried hard but his only support appeared to be David Jones, who did nothing but have one weak speculative shot at goal.

Saftich brought on Queens-land youth team striker Steve Glockner for Osborne and the speedy front quickly made his presence felt.

That man Dave Rigby again! Sunshine pinned George Cross in for long periods of the first half but two goals by Rigby in the second stanza sunk the Shiners.

There seems no stopping this free scoring midfielder. He bobbed up near the penalty spot in the 50th minute to tuck away Bobby Toal's low pass inside and about 10 minutes later followed up Ray Mizzi's shot off the post to settle the Issue from close range.

Its repetitious 1 know, but once again Sunshine was world inside the attacking third. Its finishing, or lack of, threatens to push it into the relegation battle.

Doveton will book its ticket back to Metro ranks if it loses to Melbourne Croatia at Waratah Reserve on Sunday.

If so the biggest problem facing the club will be trying to keep its squad together in order to immediately recover its State League status.

I'm convinced that had Doveton's present squad been assembled at the start of this season then the club would at least be mid-table by now. Of performance since Cedo Cirkovic took over early in the

"We played fantastic and could have beaten anybody to-day," Cirkovic said after the game.

The final score of 8-1 was no real indication how far superior Fawkner was. They should have had a dozen but for some cond savers by the Moreland have had a dozen but for some good savers by the Moreland keeper and misses by Faw-kner's forwards. Fawkner stammed in five goals before Downer got Moreland's consolation goal just before half time. After half time Fawkner kept up it's standard to notch another three goals and completely demoralise Moreland. Tuffield was outstanding, finishing with two goals as was Anselma who completed his hat-trick with the best goal of the game.

PROVISIONAL DIVISION FOUR

By JOE PICIOANE

Tony Centorino notched a hat-trick midway through the first half which in the end was just enough as Pascoe Vale struggled to beat unlucky Batman 3-2.

Batmin 3-2.

Pascoe Vale took the lead in the 15th minute through Centorino, when that player beat Lomburdo to the ball and placed his header past a stranded keeper.

Batman missed a couple of chances to get on level terms prior to three goals being scored in three minutes.

Centorino headed in his second from a cross by Apostolovski. Straight after the rest-art Mochi passed to Demonte who crossed to the incoming Gugliandolo whose header made it 2-1.

Then Centorino completed his hat-trick after finding him-self with time to turn and hit his sliding shot past the advan-cing Batman keeper Coletta from inside the box.

However Batman kept trying and eventually scored in the 89th minute Gugliandolo beat a defender and crossed for Bogomir scrambled the ball over the line. For the remainder of the game Batman fought for the equaliser which would have given it a well deserved draw.

only in the final minute of the game, in fact, that Jones was extended, brilliantly flicking a Forster lob over the bar.

Kent gave Juventus a 31st minute lead when he scored with a low shot that went in off the far post. Apart from Bolton's free kick against the Juventus, the first-half chances all belonged to the 'zebras'.

Two goals in three minutes in the second half signified Juventus' superiority. With the score at 3-0, Brine replaced himself with Pace, a sure sign that everything was going to schedule. Juventus was back on top of the league!

Eric Young summed it all up in the dressing-room afterwards; "It was men against boys."

Navijadi su, pozitvo-vanom i grubom igrom, postali gospodari terena, tako da su pred odlazak na odmor povel isa 2% 11, donekle krivicom golmana. Bilo bi vise golova u plavoj mrezi da su gosti bili prisebniji. JUST je zaista naglo popustio. Jak je mogao da postigne jos jedan gol, ali sudija nije svirao cist jedanaesterac u 15. minutu, kada je Vlada Pljevaljcic nepropisno oboren u kaznemon prostoru, posto je stvorlo idealnu sansu za gol. U drugom poluvremenu iskusni veteran Jim Kondarious je ponovo spasao svoj tim od poraza, jer je postigao oprumisticki gol u pravi cas.

Jusuf Hatunic je ponovo razocarao pobliku. Njegom kime, vec debljina i godine. Nisu potrebni lekovi i trening, vec solidna dijeta za koju vise nema vremena, jer se prvenstvo zavrsava za 20 dana, a JUST-i gori pod nogama.

in fresh ideas? Interested

John Lyall, manager of West Ham, once said: "At West Ham, once said: "At West Ham we have slways believed that coaching is about helping players. Coaches do not make great players, but merely help them and equip them for the job by giving them good habits and promoting within them fresh ideas."

But as coaches, How do we go about equipping ourselves with fresh ideas."

But as coaches, We too have to be stimulated so we in turn can stimulate our players.

The coach who is content to sit in his own backyard and wade through variations of his own ideas may succeed for a short period of time, but he will struggle to maintain a high standard of coaching. Unless you travel, watch soccer, talk to other coaches, discuss ideas and keep up with developments in the game, you will not reach the top of the coaching tree. With the season reaching its final stages, many coaches and players look forward to a break so they can come back rejuvenated for the following season.

rejuvenated for the following season.

A large percentage of them will return with the same ideas to help equip their players for the job. Where are the fresh ideas, which, with a little time and effort they could have equipped themselves with, during the close season?

Coaching courses for all levels are conducted throughout the close season and these courses provide an opportunity to develop the fresh ideas by learning from the instructor and by involvement with other coaches or would-be coaches during the course.

Teaching is a skill which has to be learned over a long period, so why should it be any different with coaches? Coaches must bear mind that they are coaching people and not just passing on information about soccer to the the courses from level one.

The courses from level one to level three cater for the needs of all.

needs of all.

Many junior coaches have little or no background in the game but find themselves re-game but find themselves re-sponsible for teams.

A level one course will show them how to become a good or-ganiser without being put in the precarious position of having to demonstrate the withle having to skills.

Obviously, ex-players who can demonstrate will find coaching easier and this, combined with good organisation, will greatly benefit young players.

will greatly benefit young players.
Level two is a preliminary course and a continuation of the above with a breakdown of each particular technique, with information on how to coach those techniques to players. Most players or explayers can demonstrate the techniques but on the course they will learn to break down and teach what they are demonstration for players.

A good mathematician is not necessarily a good maths teacher so equally a good player is not necessarily a player is not necessarily a good coach.

This particular course is a pass/fail course but whether a coach passes or falls there is no doubt he/she will learn more about the game.

Level three is a senior course which mainly shows coaches how to deal with groups of players. The game is built on the principles of attack and defence. This course will show coaches how to apply those principles to apply those principles in the principles of a principles of the passes of course will show coaches how to apply those principles to their teams. It will also show coaches how to perform func-tions on individual players in reference to their position on the field, i.e. full back, central the field, i.e. full back, central striker etc.

It is my experience that a number of well-known players or ex-players have developed a fear complex about coaching courses.

I believe the reason is purely because they feet they might tarnish their reputation in the game because they have to put themselves on show on the course.

They cannot be allowed to to put themselves on show on the course.

They cannot be allowed to go through a coaching career purely on the evidence of presscrippings.

Everybody is in the same position and everybody learns from each other's plusses or minuses when performing a coaching session.

Well-known personalities who have attended courses over the years include, John Gardiner (currently a staff coach), Jim Rooney, Pan Bannon, John Yzendorn, Steve Short, John Kennedy, Bob McLachian, Jim Williams etc. etc.

McLachian, Jim Williams, etc. etc.

Those same people broadened their knowledge of the game considerably and are now, along with other coaches, actively engaged in passing on their experiences to players with more expertise than they could otherwise have done.

Courses will be held throughout the close season. Level one is a good step for the less experienced people in the game. Level two is a must in the system as a pass on this course is necessary before a coach can attempt a level three course.

Candidates can get information from our coaching course secretary Mr Ken Lyon, 73 Yuille St, Frankston, Tel. 781
